SIEMENS energy

The Siemens Energy Returnship Program is a six-month, paid professional development initiative designed for mid-career professionals looking to return-to-work after an extended career break. The Returnship empowers professionals to confidently restart their careers with the tools, experience, and networks necessary for long-term success in today's competitive job market.

Joining Siemens Energy's return-to-work program offers significant benefits for professionals seeking to re-energize their career in the energy sector, with the program running across the UAE, Indonesia, Korea, Australia, Sweden and the UK.
